The genetic diversity of sulfate-reducing bacteria (SRB) in the sulfidic Lake Kinneret aquifer in north-eastern Israel was investigated by the analysis of 16S rRNA gene sequences. The results showed that DNA sequences from four sample sites were affiliated with Desulfobacter sp. although two of these sequences did not indicate direct affiliation with the Desulfobacteraceae family. In addition, one cluster of sequences was affiliated with Desulfatibacillum sp., but the remaining sequences did not indicate affiliation with Desulfatibacillaceae. These results suggest that SRB in the samples are related to the Desulfobacteraceae and Desulfatibacillaceae families. Moreover, our findings indicate that SRB are present in the northern lakes of the Golan, which suggests that these bacteria are indigenous to the aquifers of those lakes.Solovetsky Solovetsky (Russian:) or Solovskoe (;) may refer to: Solovetsky District, a district in Kaluga Oblast, Russia Solovki prison camp, a prison camp in the Soviet Union between 1954 and 1990 Solovetsky (inhabited locality), several inhabited localities in Russia Solovetsky (volcano), a volcano in Kamchatka Solovki Light, a lighthouse on Vaygach Island in the Solovetsky Archipelago the Solovki Islands, an archipelago in the White Sea in Russia Solovetsky Uyezd, the administrative district of the Pale of Settlement before the first partition of Poland in 1772 Solovki (air base), an air base in Arkhangelsk Oblast, Russia,
